Andrijevica

Andrijevica is located in the north-eastern corner of Montenegro, at the confluence of the Rivers Zlorečica and Lim. Surrounded by Komovi, Bjelasica and Prokletije, this distinctly mountainous municipality, with more than five thousand inhabitants, is situated at an altitude of 740 metres above sea level. Whether you are a fan of mountaineering, cycling, fishing or extreme sports, you are in the right place. You will be able to enjoy numerous and different trails, rivers teeming with trout, huchen and grayling, the wild cliffs and white waters of the River Lim's tributaries, as well as attractive cycling trails through the forest.

What makes Andrijevica special is the fact that it is located right on the intersection, between the great mountain ranges - Prokletije, Komovi and Bjelasica. Komovi have always been an inspiration to poets and a challenge to mountaineers and botanists. Thrilled by the peaks and pastures, nature lovers had good reason to name it "the emperor of mountains and a divine giant". You can still find authentic Vasojevici-style houses here that preserve the rhythm of the former highland life. You should not pass up the opportunity to see some of the remaining summer pastures that are slowly surrendering to the wondrous cruelty of the mountain and fading away from its slopes.

And as you admire the stunning mountain scenery try not to forget that this is a region rich in history, populated since prehistoric times. Andrijevica is a place where certain famous battles took place, a place of historical agreements and of some of the most important events in Montenegrin history. This is the place where the first school, as well as the first reading room of the region, was founded. Also, the remains one of the oldest churches of Polimlje are discovered near the town.

There is a story going that it is a great sin to visit these parts and not try traditional Vasojevici cuisine. You can smell the roast lamb and home-made bread here and taste the famous smocani kacamak (a type of polenta with homemade cream), cream and cheese. You can wash it all down with the famous Vasojevici jardum (a type of dairy drink) and yogurt.

Plav

Plav is a town in eastern Montenegro and it is located at the foot of the Prokletije mountain range, adjacent to the springs of the river Lim. Plav, as the old archives say, was the name for the whole region and it was named after the Roman emperor Flavius (Phlavius) and the times when that area belonged to the Roman Empire.

Plav municipality include also Gusinje. Gusinje is near the border with Albania, southwest of Plav, it is located where two rivers, Grncar and Vruja, meet.

The area contains many lakes and the most known is Lake Plav, one of the largest in this region. Plavsko Lake lies in peace surrounded by green meadows and low bushes, at the foothills of the mountains Prokletije and Visitor reflecting in the lake. The lakes Hrid and Visitor are mountain lakes.

In the massif of Prokletije, among many springs the most beautiful are Ali-Pasha's springs and Oko Skakavice (Spring of the river Skakavica). While Oko Skakavice is a spring of ice-cold water that comes out of the great depth, Ali-Pasha's springs bubble on the surface of over 300 square metres.

The most important cultural and historical monuments preserved in this area are definitely "Old Mosque" in Plav, the Church "Holy Trinity" in Brezojevica, "Kula Redzepagica" in Plav and "Vizier Mosque" in Gusinje.

The region is also known by its towers and watchtowers from the Ottoman times built in the 17th and 18th century. These facilities are increased tourist value of this region, as well as the locations where they are.

Today most of the people born in Plav and Gusinje region live abroad and the town gets alive only during their summer vacations when they return to see their relatives. Even when its people leave it and go to live somewhere else they always go back to it or they create colonies – another Plav and another Gusinje on another continent. Thousands of them meet every year at the end of august at Ali-Pasha's Springs near Gusinje.

Berane

Berane, a town in the Lim Valley, surrounded by the mountains of Bjelasica, Cmiljevica, Turjak and Komovi. The magnificent landscape is made up of numerous mountain peaks exceeding 2.000 m, glacial lakes and a wide forest area with diverse flora and fauna.

It lies in the region known since medieval times as Budimlja, a prosperous country that lay in the middle of the medieval Serbian state. The town itself is actually the youngest in the whole of Montenegro. Its beginning lies in the year 1862 when the Turks built their barracks in the field near the village of Beran to watch over the region of Andrijevica, won by Montenegro in 1860. The town grew around officers' houses but the orthodox population did not settled in longer numbers until its liberation in 1912 when the Berane became the seat of district and got a high school, the only such institution in this part of the country. In the memory of the revolutionary Ivan Milutinovic, on 21 July 1949, the decision was made that the town will be named after him Ivangrad. In a citizen referendum in November 1991 the old name Berane was restored.

By far the most interesting monument in Berane is the Monastery of Djurdjevi Stupovi ("George's Towers") the seat of the orthodox bishopric. Djurdjevi Stupovi Monastery fascinates visitors in a unique way and reveals many spiritual treasures. This monastery, located two kilometres from the town centre, is the most important historical and cultural monument in this area. It was built at the beginning of the 13th century, and was the seat of the Budimlje Bishopric, which was established by St. Sava. It was burnt down and destroyed five times and five times reconstructed and consecrated. In addition to the remains of frescoes, the monastery treasures a large cross, a masterpiece of 19th century master goldsmiths, as well as a large copy of a gospel with a silver cover.

Some 15 km to the east of Berane is Mt. Cmiljevica (1963 m) under which is located the Ski centre „Lokve“ with a freshly reconstructed hotel of the same name and three ski-lifts leading to five ski pistes.

Rozaje

Rozaje is located in the northeastern part of Montenegro. Overshadow the Montenegrin Prokletije and in the immediate neighborhood of southwestern Serbia and Kosovo, this area represents the triple frontier area, surrounded by a mountain range Smiljavica 1953 m, Hajla 2403 m, Stedim 2272 m and Zlijeba 2322 m.

Rozaje is a settlement that was founded in the 7th century AD. Here are lived the Illyrians, Romans and Greeks, and later settled the Slovenian population. Ottomans are region of Bihor and Rozaje occupied 1455. The town was first mentioned by 1585 under the name Trgoviste ("Market") as the peasants from the surrounding mountains came here to sell their meat, skins and dairy products and this tradition continued until not long ago. The name Rozaje, coming from the two crags rising above the town which reminded of horns (rogovi). During the Ottoman rule the region of Rozaje, in addition to small town of Rozaje, also included the part of Bihor, Pester and the Novi Pazar area. Then, in 1892, Rozaje included 81 village. The wealth they have gained traders from this region in the second half of the 19th century is was expressed in the pronouncement of that time, "If Carigrad burnt out, Rozaje would build him".

The presence of several cultures in different periods of prehistory and history in area of Rozaje, is pointed by many place names, folk traditions, especially the many cultural and historical monuments: Church Ruzica in Suhi Do, Madam's Church on the same mountain top - the endowment of Jelena Anzujska wife of Uros I Nemanjic, Kurtagic mosque - built by the sultan Murat II in 1697, Household mosque built in 1830, Ganica tower built in the early years of the nineteenth century.

Rozaje is surrounded with magnificent range of mountains, lower regions are hidden in thick forests while above them rise stony peaks attractive for hiking or even free climbing. The area is well known for its abundance of mushrooms and blueberries and many rare and endemic flowers. Following a trail along river Ibar in the southwest will lead you to its beautiful springs (vrela Ibra), where are six pretty streams. Located just 4 km from Rozaje on the highway towards Berane is the ski centre „Turjak“.
